SMILING THROUGH

A STRUGGLING author had called on a publisher to inquire about a manuscript he had submitted.

"This is quite well written," admitted the publisher, "but my firm only publishes work by writers with well-known names."

"Splendid!" shouted the caller in great excitement. "My name's Smith!"—Tit-Bits.

His Lordship—"James, I am rather worried about the number of empty bottles in the cellar."

James—"Don't worry about those, my lord. If her ladyship mentions them I'll say I drank every drop myself."—Die Woche im Bild.

"Isn't it dreadful? The minister's son has decided to become a jockey. He was to have been a minister, you know."

"Well, he'll bring a lot more people to repentance than he would as a minister."—Wall Street Journal.

"Do you enjoy listening to the radio?"

"Very much," answered Miss Cayenne. "It's better than cards or music in the home. You don't have to pretend you're entertained, regardless of the truth."—Washington Star.

Minister (coming upon fighter who had just floored his man)—"Dear me! Is this the way you spend Sunday?"

Victor (putting on his coat)—"Spend Sunday? Lumme, that only took 'arf a minute."—Vancouver Province.

"I understand you've got your divorce, Mandy. Did you get any alimony from your husband?"

"No, Mrs. Jones, but he done give me a first-class reference."—Elks Magazine.

A safety authority was quoting accident statistics in a Western college. In his audience were two flappers.

Out of bright red lips came this question: "What does he mean, Lulu, when he says 'two point five' men were killed out of each 1,000 injured?"

"Why, Betty," said Lulu, "he means two are killed and five are at the point of death."—Safe Driver.

"You may not remember me, sir, but two years ago I rescued your daughter from drowning, and you made me a present of $1,000."

"Yes, indeed, young man—I recall you perfectly. What can I do for you?"

"I merely dropped in to inquire if your daughter has learned to swim yet?"—Boston Transcript.

Baby Mosquito—"A man just clapped his hands at daddy."

Mother ditto—"Well, what if he did?"

Baby Mosquito—"Daddy was in between 'em."

ED WYNN'S QUESTION BOX

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I bought a horse yesterday at a sale and drove him home. He kept stopping every few minutes. Today I took him out again and he did the same thing. What do you think is wrong with him? Sincerely,

Ken Tuckkie.

Answer—He is probably deaf and is afraid he won't hear you say whoa, so he just stops to listen.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

While walking yesterday I saw a man with a tin cup in his hand and a sign on his hat which read: "Please help the blind." I dropped 10 cents in his cup, then, looking at him, I saw he was only blind in one eye. Did I do wrong to give him a dime? Yours truly, Miss Taken.

Answer—You did wrong in giving him a dime. As he was only blind in one eye, you should have given him a nickel.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I have a friend who always talks about himself. He told me last night that he once fell off a sixty-five-foot ladder and wasn't hurt. Do you believe this. Yours truly,

Heeza Liar.

Answer—He could have fallen from a sixty-five-foot ladder without injury, but he probably fell off the first step.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I met a man yesterday with two little boys. He said: "These boys are sisters." How could they be? Sincerely,

Carrie Meback.

Answer—He was right. He meant they were his sister's children.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

An Englishman quite boastfully told me that the English took the flag away from us at Bunker Hill and says it is now in a British Museum. Is it true the English have the flag? Sincerely,

Min. Itman.

Answer—Yes, but we have the hill.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

This morning I tried to see how long I could stand on my head. After three minutes I had to give up because the blood rushed to my head. When I stand on my feet how is it the blood doesn't rush there? Yours truly,

Con. Tortionist.

Answer—Your feet are not empty.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

Can you tell me what is meant by a crazy bone? Truly yours,

U. Mer.

Answer—A crazy bone is a dollar spent foolishly.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

What is meant by "The Charge of the Light Brigade?" Truly yours,

Col. Ector.

Answer—That's the bill you get from the gas company.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

Since automobiles have become so plentiful I notice so few horses. Don't people go "sledding" any more? Yours truly,

Cy Derpress.

Answer—I should say they do. There is more "slaying" done with automobiles than was ever done with horses.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS

The epitaph perpetuates the unmade reputation.

Don't annoy a silent man; he may be a reformed prize fighter.

People are seldom what they seem to think you think they are.

The rolling stone gathers no moss, but it is different with the rolling joke.

Indifference sometimes wins where manifest desire stands no show.

Adam had his childish experience with little green apples after reaching manhood.

It doesn't matter if beauty is only skin deep as long as the skin is worn on the outside.

If a bachelor is the acme of selfishness, then happy is the woman that fails to get him.

Some politicians, like corkscrews, are more or less crooked, but they have a strong pull.

It is a wise fool who can keep his lack of wisdom to himself.

Love that laughs at locksmiths never giggles at the plumber.

Marriage is the end of all man's troubles—one end or the other.

Poor relations wonder if the rich one really has a poor memory.

Some men are like silver-plated knives; they look bright, but are dull.

A girl has a young man twisted around her finger when he circles it with an engagement ring.

Some Senators have such broad views that they can straddle almost any question.

When a man has so much money that it troubles him, he can easily find some woman who will be glad to share his troubles.

SENATOR SOAPER SAYS:

Race-track betting machines have been held illegal by a London bench. This turns the business back to the bookies and is, of course, an unexpected body blow to technocracy.

A Berlin physician has settled in the South Pacific to escape intellectual friends. We must look for his "I'm a Fugitive From a Brain Gang" in the new book lists.

The British Isles are found by geologists to be slipping into the sea at the rate of nine inches a century. If France is settling, it has passed unnoticed.

THE BUSINESS COIFFURE, Created by Semon, Contains No Hint of a Wave, but Is Combed Back Off the Forehead. (Joseph Capitaine.)

By HENRIETTA HELSTON

NEVER before have women paid so much attention to hair styles and trends as they are doing these days. And there is a reason.

The coiffure plays a leading rôle in a woman's dress ensemble this season. It is the keynote of smartness in the entire ensemble. No matter how attractive the dress, hat or gown milady may choose, if her coiffure does not harmonize with them the effect is not as pleasing as she may picture in her imagination.

Most hairdressers are now working in conjunction with milliners to give women the smartness of coiffure necessary for the prevailing style of hats. They are also working in conjunction with couturiers, creating styles for sport clothes, street clothes and evening clothes. Many of the coiffures created are known as the "all around" coiffures. They may be worn with the sport or street clothes, and may be worn also with evening clothes by the addition of a flat ringlet or two.

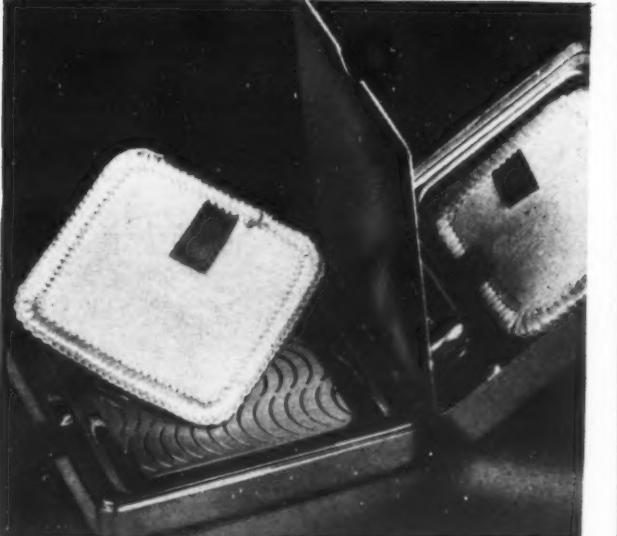

A SIDE VIEW OF THE BUSINESS COIFFURE Shows Two Rows of Flat Ringlets. It Is Ideal for the Chic Hats of This Season. (Joseph Capitaine.)

THE RESORT EVENING WRAP PUTS FLATTERY FIRST

A SWAGGER COAT OF THE GAY '90s.
This Model in Beige Broadcloth, With Hand-Embroidered Appliqués and Real Lace Trimmings, Shows How Fashion Cycles Repeat. Shown by Katherine Casey at the Retailers' Show This Week.
(New York Times Studios.)

By GRACE WILEY.
THE resort evening wrap having no consideration of warmth to contend with, can frankly devote itself to those other purposes of an evening wrap—to be, first of all, flattering and then to make less obvious the decolletage of the gown. Both these purposes are admirably served by the abbreviated wraps which are being shown for the South. The newest of these are in organdy, ruffled organdy capes or the ruff-scarf shown on this page, or even little organdy jackets with immense Pa-giacci ruffs about the neck.

ARDANSE'S SMART IDEA
Shows Her Black Crêpe Skirt, Blouse of Gold and White, and Green Girdle and Coat.

A WARDEN'S STORY OF PRISON LIFE COMES TO THE SCREEN

"AN EXCURSION UP THE RIVER": A SCENE FROM "20,000 YEARS IN SING SING."

First National's Screen Version of the Book by Warden Lewis E. Lawes of Sing Sing Prison at Ossining, N. Y. Tom Connors (Spencer Tracy), a Romantic Gangster of New York, Tells the Detectives and Reporters Who Accompany Him to Prison That by the Influence of His Political Connections He Expects to Enjoy Special Privileges in the Penitentiary. His Arrogance Is Short-Lived Under the Executions of Prison Discipline and He Soon Adapts Himself to the Routine of His 2,400 "Neighbors."

IN "20,000 Years in Sing Sing," First National Pictures Company presents to the public an intimate cross-section of life in one of the most famous penitentiaries in the world, and demonstrates in detail the predominant social problem of making lawbreakers into law-abiding citizens—not by the harsh and inhuman measures which previously alienated the prisoner further from society but by the treatment of each individual case with understanding and sympathy.

Warden Lewis E. Lawes, head of Sing Sing Prison at Ossining, N. Y., on whose book of the same title the picture was based, has devoted the thirteen years of his wardenship at the State's largest institution to the furtherance of the social rehabilitation of lawbreakers. He has striven tirelessly, and with considerable success, to prove to the public mind that those who run afoul of the law are more frequently the victims of environmental maladjustments than habitual criminals. His name has become synonymous with prison reform and his many articles and lectures on penology have gone far in teaching the public its duty in the correction of a host of social evils that make for criminality.

ONE OF THE CELL BLOCKS OF THE PRISON: FAITHFUL TO THE ACTUAL ROUTINE AT SING SING, the Picture Shows the Inmates Preparing to March to the Music of the Prison Band Into the Large Dining Rooms for the Noon Meal. In Keeping With the Reforms Instituted by Warden Lawes at Sing Sing, the Guards Shown in the Film Do Not Carry Weapons and the Prisoners Are Permitted Some Liberty in Dress.

AN ATTEMPTED PRISON BREAK: TOM CONNORS (Centre) Refuses to Join the Leaders in an Attempt to Escape and Remains in His Cell Despite a Threat Against His Life. For His Good Conduct in This Instance Connors Is Later Permitted to Visit His Sweetheart, Who Has Been Injured in an Automobile Accident—an Element in the Screen Version Which Does Not Appear in the Book.

THE LAST FAREWELL: CONNORS AND HIS SWEETHEART FAY (BETTE DAVIS), Embrace Shortly Before He Leaves His Cell in the Death House for the Execution Chamber to Pay With His Life for the Murder of a Crooked Politician Who Had Been Shot by Fay During a Fight Between Him and Connors. In the Rear Is Arthur Byron as Warden Long.
